COTTON CROP ESTIMATE NEARING 1932

NEARLY THIRTEEN MILLION BALES IS LATEST FORECAST

INDICATED THIS YEAR'S CROP NEARLY EQUAL LAST YEAR DESPITE PLOWUP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (P)—Cotton production this year, was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture at 12,885,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, compared with 12,414,000 bales indicated a month ago and 13,002,000 bales produced last year.

The condition of the crop on October 1 was 66.7 per cent of a normal compared with 67.5 a month ago, 54.2 on October 1 last year and 57.1, the ten-year average on October 1.

The indicated yield per acre was 5.25 compared with 5.17 a month ago, 4.73 a month ago, 5.42 on October 1 last year and 5.71, the ten-year average on October 1.

The production forecast was based on the preliminary acreage statistics which placed the area remaining October 1 for harvest at 30,036,000 acres, allowing deduction for the probable removal of acreage reported to the agricultural adjustment administration less abandonment on area not under contract. The area in cultivation July 1 this year was 40,798,000 acres.

The condition of the crop October 1, and the indicated production by states was reported as follows: Virginia, condition 70 per cent of normal, and indicated production, 38,000 bales of 500 gross weight; North Carolina, 71 and 72,000; Georgia, 70 and 1,070,000; Florida, 77 and 30,000; Missouri, 71 and 220,000; Tennessee, 67 and 1,411,000; Alabama, 65 and 1,010,000; Mississippi, 64 and 1,285,000; Louisiana, 52 and 510,000; Texas, 70 and 4,180,000; Oklahoma, 67 and 1,175,000; Arkansas, 62 and 1,175,000; New Mexico 87 and 73,000; Arizona, 87 and 73,000.

Two Men Robbed

Deport Stores Early Monday

DEPORT, Oct. 9. (P)—Two men robbed three stores here of merchandise valued at more than $1,000 early today and kidnapped a woman, leaving them tied to a tree in a field three miles south of Paris.

They overpowered Claude Barham, a night watchman, and Bill Slusher, who happened to be passing, and forced them to accompany them on the rounds. A hardware store, a dry goods store and a drug store were entered.

Additional $40,000 In Cotton Checks Received Monday

Additional cotton acreage reduction contract checks received in Corsicana Monday morning swelled the total receipts to $843,468.33, and the number of checks to 441, almost 50 per cent of the contracts accepted.

Monday's installment included 164 checks for $40,544.

NRA'S "BUY NOW" CAMPAIGN OPENED THROUGHOUT NATION MONDAY; PEOPLE URGED SPEND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (P)—The NRA's "buy now" campaign today was up to the American housewife.

To her, spender of 85 per cent of the family income, Hugh S. Johnson asked the country's support: "These payrolls cannot be maintained and new jobs for other hundreds of thousands of workers cannot be made unless every consumer in the land does his or her part now.

"For four years the American consumer has been skipping—putting off buying more than he needs—until 'better times' come. Better times are here. x x x Better times always mean higher prices. Now is the time to buy for purely selfish reasons. Prices are going up. Buying now is an investment.

As the big drive gathered momentum, other NRA activities progressed along routine channels. Aside from the buying campaign, greatest interest centered on the ultimate form of the retail trades code with its provision to stabilize prices by prohibiting sales at less than wholesale cost plus 10 per cent.

Johnson was expected to send this master charter to President Roosevelt tomorrow. Today the farm administration opens hearings on a grocery store code with a similar price-regulating provision. But while Johnson favors such price regulation, farm administrators have declared their opposition.

SCENE OF ILLINOIS MINE DISORDERS

SERIES DISARMAMENT CONFERENCES OPEN AT GENEVA MONDAY

UNITED STATES INSTRUMENTAL IN SERIES FIVE-POWER CONSERVATIONS

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
GENEVA, Oct. 9. (P)—As a result of American initiative, an era of 5-power disarmament conversations, with Germany included on a basis of equality, began today.

Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour of France and Count Rudolf Nadjolny of Germany were scheduled to confer before nightfall. American Ambassador Norman H. Davis having been successful in bringing the two together in an attempt to iron out their differences.

Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the disarmament conference, was expected to insist upon the wisdom of general conversations in his address before the steering committee, which began its discussions today, and also to insist that the conference reopen on October 16, as scheduled.

Indications were that one rock on which the conversation of the conference may be wrecked is the question to what extent Germany's neighbors will record in a treaty their intention to scrap heavy armaments.

A German delegate, clarifying Berlin's attitude in the matter, said that his government wants the right to possess from the start types of defensive armaments, which any treaty would not prohibit to signatories as a whole.

This means, he said, that the Reich wants tanks, pursuit planes and artillery up to 155 millimeters, although the problem of submarine, greatest interest until naval treaties are revived.

"Germany will not ask any heavier armaments at any time provided other powers pledged themselves by a treaty eventually to destroy them whether it be one year or eight years from now," he added.

TEXTILES LEADING MARCH TO RECOVERY DESPITE MUMBLINGS

SURVEY INDICATES ADHERENCE TO NRA POLICIES WILL BE BENEFICIAL

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (P)—The spindle and the loom continue to lead the march of recovery, despite the head-shakings and cluck-cluckings with the spindles and weaving of fabrics broke all records during the early summer.

While production at that time ran far in excess of consumption and went largely toward building up stocks in advance of higher costs under operation, there has been a revival of demand for textile goods during recent weeks, and trade analysts say accurate production for at least the remainder of the year seems assured.

That the long depressed textile industry, which failed to get even a nibble of the boom time profits of 1928 and 1929, should now be setting the pace is one of the phenomena of recovery.

The cotton division was the first major industry to start operating under an NRA code, and despite the skepticism which was manifest in several quarters at the start, many authorities now agree that code operation bids fair to cure the ills from which this industry had long suffered.

Discussing the textile industries generally, a survey by Standard Statistics Co. says "In the event the NRA policies are permanently adhered to by this industry, it may safely be forecast that the trade henceforth will experience more favorable aggregate results than for any period since 1924, the last year of really satisfactory textile profits."

PRICE REGULATION AT CORNER GROCERY IS PROVING ISSUE

CLAIMED RECOVERY AND FARM ADMINISTRATIONS WORKING APART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (P)—Price regulation at the corner grocery store was at issue today before the farm administration. Members of the National Association of Retail Grocers assembled to press in public hearings their demands for a provision in the food and grocery code which would prevent wholesalers and retailers from selling at less than a minimum mark-up over cost of 1-2 to 7-12 per cent, respectively.

George N. Peek, farm administrator, today was asked to

Seven Violent Deaths in Texas During Weekend

(By The Associated Press.)
Seven violent deaths made up the week-end toll in Texas. Three were killed in automobile accidents, one plunged to death from a hotel window, another hanged himself, one was stabbed and a seventh was killed by a train.

Lieut. Charles Quereau, 29, of San Antonio, plunged to his death from the 14th story window of an Amarillo hotel room early Sunday.

TEXAS PORTS AND COMMERCIAL INTERESTS DENIED REVIEW OF DECISION ON RAILROAD RATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (P)—Texas ports and commercial interests in that state, Oklahoma and Kansas, claiming to be parties directly adversely affected by the decision, asked the court to reconsider it.

They insisted the Texas and Pacific railroad was guilty of giving New Orleans undue preference in rates to the prejudice of Texas ports and shippers handling merchandise passing through there, due to its control by the Missouri Pacific.

Pointing out that while the decision gave shippers and receivers of freight through Texas ports relief against unreasonable rates, they contended it gave them no protection against discriminatory freight charges.

The court "misconceived" the scope of the case, they asserted, declaring the commission was attempting by its order to remove inequalities and disadvantages from which Texas ports and shippers have been suffering and take from New Orleans advantages enjoyed because of lower freight rates there, and was not attempting to aid one port at the expense of the other, as the high court had seemed to hold.

They insisted the court had acted on a mistaken idea of the real facts, failing to give proper consideration to the findings of the commission, that a full appreciation of the facts would prove the Gulf ports are "local" over which the commission has jurisdiction to prevent undue prejudice and preference in railroad rates.

INVESTIGATION OF ALLEGED SELLING OF JOBS ORDERED

LIVESTOCK SANITARY COMMISSION BE PROBED; ONLY ONE MEMBER INVOLVED

AUSTIN, Oct. 9. (P)—A resolution authorizing an investigation of alleged job selling in the live stock sanitary commission was adopted today by the Texas house of representatives.

The inquiry will be made by the appropriations committee of 21 members.

The resolution was offered by Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville who said it was "common street talk in East Texas that a member of the live stock sanitary commission was selling jobs."

The committee was ordered to make a speedy investigation and to report its findings by next Friday if possible.

The resolution appointed a steering committee comprised of Burns and Representatives Harry Graves of Georgetown and O. F. Chastain of Eastland. Witnesses were subpoenaed to appear before the committee tomorrow morning.

The resolution conferred broad powers on the committee including authority to summon witnesses and records and punish for contempt.

It has come to the attention of the appropriations committee both by affidavits and other evidence, that certain members and employees of the live stock sanitary commission have carried on a very questionable practice in the filling of jobs and positions of

Welfare Board Is Perfecting Plans To Feed Children

Lists of food requirements for the maintaining of the "free food" to undernourished children in the Corsicana public schools were scheduled to be submitted to Corsicana grocers for bids Tuesday, and the school board will meet about Thursday, or in time for the transfer of the work from the Corsicana Parent-Teacher Association to the Navarro County Board of Welfare and Relief next Monday.

The necessary clerical forms for handling the work were being prepared Monday and will be ready by the time the state-federal agencies take over the task that has been carried on by the school patrons and friends for several years.

According to present plans, welfare officials said, bids will be asked for supplies for monthly periods, and orders will be asked each month. The diet lists have been secured and the quantities of the various commodities needed were being compiled preparatory to the securing of the bids.

CUBAN UNREST IS STILL RAMPANT AS FOOD GROWS SHORT

LABOR TROUBLES ALSO ADD TO ACUTE SITUATION IN ORIENTE PROVINCE

HAVANA, Oct. 9. (P)—Oriente Province and its capital, Santiago, seethed with unrest today because of labor troubles and serious food shortage.

Adherents of Former President Marti G. Menocal were reported preparing for a revolution in several Oriente towns.

Labor unions met to formulate demands and to plan a general strike. Food stocks dwindled; a thousand hungry beggars walked the streets. The political situation was tense.

Consumers of electricity in at least five towns struck for lower rates.

In Havana, soldiers and radical members of the ABC secret society were shot at from house-tops while troops searched for arms in homes of leading oppositionists.

Attempts to conciliate political differences between the Grau San Martin administration and its opponents, meanwhile, advanced with the appointment by the pro-Grau student directory of four professors to enter negotiations broken off more than a week ago by the government's uncompromising rejection of demands for its resignation.

American Ambassador Sumner Welles and Colonel Fulgencio Batista held another consultation, in which Mr. Welles said the protection of American property was a major topic.

TWO KILLED AND FIFTEEN INJURED RESULT SUB BLAST

BELIEVED THAT EXPLOSION ABOARD BRITISH SUBMER-SIBLE DUE TO WATER

BY B. C. FUGH
CAMBELTON HARBOR, SCOTLAND, Oct. 9. (P)—An investigation proceeded today into an explosion and fire in the submarine L-26 which caused two deaths and serious injuries to 15.

This was the worst British naval accident since January, 1932, when the submarine M-2 sank off Portland with seven officers and 53 men.

The L-26, a sister ship of the L-24, which was rammed off Portland in 1924 by a warship with the loss of 43 lives, was about to go to the annual maneuvers after being grounded five hours on the rocks at Kintyre peninsula.

Apparently in good shape, the L-26 was refueled and proceeded here. The blast occurred yesterday and was due, officials believed, to water reaching the batteries, which were being recharged.

GUARD IS SLAPPED BY KATHRYN KELLY GEORGE IS SLUGGED

BELLIGERENT PRELUDE TO TRIAL OF NOTED PAIR ON KIDNAP CHARGE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 9. (P)—A swiftly selected jury sat ready to hear the kidnaping conspiracy case of George and Kathryn Kelly today, little more than two hours after the belligerent Kellys had been pounded the head with a pistol butt at a pre-trial row with his guards.

Four farmers and eight town business men were with a minimum of quibbling try the Kellys for their part in the $200,000 abduction of Charles F. Urschel.

And, said prosecutors, the pre-trial row will be correspondingly speedy.

"They've done everything to admit their guilt in open court," was the way Joseph E. Keenan, assistant attorney general, put it. "The thing to do now is to hurry this thing through."

However, the slender Kathryn, who slapped Federal Agent C. C. White as he tried to hustle her into the elevator and up to the lower courtroom before the trial opened this morning, will claim she was coerced by her husband into a part in the conspiracy, her attorney said.

Kelly Rages.

Kelly may prevent no testimony in his own behalf, his head bloody and swelling with his straw-colored, dyed hair, the result of a blow from Agent White's fist, but, Kelly raged, and muttered, "I didn't do anything and he hit me with a pistol," when he was led into the courtroom, and his wife stormed, "Yes, I slapped that officer, and I did it again!"

They soon were smiling again, however.

In selecting the jury, both government and defense exercised four challenges. Six other veniremen were excused for cause. Most of the jurors finally selected are residents of Pottawatomie county, one-time home of Mrs. Kelly.

The row in the federal building lobby began when the brown-eyed Mrs. Kelly paused at the elevator door of Miss her father, J. E. Brooks of Oklahoma City. White gave her a slight shove toward the lift.

"I'm hurrying!" she cried, and slapped him.

Kelly, shackled hand and foot.

Manion Decides Will Not Appeal Prison Sentence

DALLAS, Oct. 9. (P)—Tom L. Manion, former deputy-jailer, announced today that he would not appeal the sentence of two years and one month imposed by the federal court Saturday for his part in the kidnaping of Harvey Bailey to escape from the Dallas county jail on Labor Day.

Manion, 35, was arrested after the kidnaping of Bailey, a well-known Dallas sportsman, and was held in the jail for several days before being released.

Manion's sentence was imposed by Judge J. W. Wells, who presided over the trial. Manion's attorney, J. E. Brooks, said that his client was "very disappointed" but would not appeal the sentence.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF IN COAL AREA AS FRICK COMPANY REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE UNION

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series dealing with the present battle between capital and labor in the coal and steel centers of Western Pennsylvania.)

BY MARGEN GRAHAM
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9. (P)—History, as has been said, has a habit of repeating itself.

The present situation in the strike-torn coal and steel centers of Western Pennsylvania is but another phase of a condition which existed eleven years ago.

At that time a national wide strike was in progress and only after most of the operators gath- at Jacksonville, Florida, and signed what has become known as the "Jacksonville Agreement," did the industry regain its stride.

This agreement pledged virtually all except the H. C. Frick Coke company, largest operator of "captive" mines in Fayette county, to recognize the United Mine Workers of America.

Frick then—even as today—refused recognition just as it has done since 1922. This policy is based on the premise that Frick employees are given every advantage for comfortable living and that that is considerably more than some of the other companies provide—even though they may recognize the union.

The union claims it spent $800,000 in the 1922 fight, but eventually Frick reopened and the aid of the needy miners was discontinued.

William Feeney, president of the Union district comprising Fayette county, was blasted by the operators for the shut-off of relief and that is the reason he is shouted down every time he suggests an end of the present walk-out.

"You sold us out in 1922," the miners cry.

Many of the dissatisfied miners admit Frick has done comparatively well by its employees, but like Martin F. Ryan, leader of the "insurgent" union forces, maintain the company must be forced to come into the union fold or the desire for complete collective bargaining will be defeated.

Other Benefits.

Frick officials say none of the rentals on the miners' houses ex-

Men were thrown in all directions. Officers and the hurt members of the crew of 50 rushed to the main deck but were hindered by barrels of twisted steel, splintered work, smoke, fumes, and flames. Flashes of flame. Machine guns were hurt by the blast and shouting for help. Men had to suffer further agony as they were removed for they were crushed by the broken steel. A part of the crew immediately began to battle the fire, but they were two hours before exclaiming it.

The first news of the accident reached the destroyer Mackay, which was 10 miles away, when which boats were rushed to the stricken craft. Several fishing boats and other harbor vessels responded to the scene, and gave aid.

The damaged craft lay last night outside the Mackay, to which it was towed.

In Senate Mail—Shipping Probe

Here are some of the principal figures in the Senate committee investigation into shipping deals and mail contracts now in progress at the capital. Senator Hugo Black of Alabama is chairman of the committee before which it was revealed Henry Herberman, of New York, acquired $42,000,000 worth of ships and $18,000,000 worth of mail contracts from the government with initial capital of $1,000 and $4,000 goodwill. Relations that existed between Herberman and T. V. O'Connor, former chairman of the Shipping Board at the time of the deal are under scrutiny, as is the part which C. Bascom Slomp, of Virginia, former secretary to President Coolidge, played in the negotiations. Robert P. Lamont, former Secretary of Commerce, is mentioned in the probe as having approved extension of a loan to Herberman's corporation when its liabilities were far in excess of its assets. It was further charged that Herberman's company carried U. S. mail at a cost of $68,000 a pound.

The company extends credit exceeding the amount given by the county to indigents with the understanding it will be repaid when times improve. Many of the employees' families owe from $300 to $500.

Other operators, faced with "an acute competitive situation," made more so by the economic situation, have been unable to extend as favorable conditions to their employees and it was among these that the greatest seed of discontent was planted and grew.

Into the picture came talk of a "new deal" and the "forgotten man." The miners, grabbing at a straw, began a drive for "unqualified union recognition." They say: "Our president is for us and our governor is for us. If we don't win this time we never will."

WESTBROOK WOULD BE RETAINED HEAD STATE RELIEF BODY

SENATE SUB-COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS DRASTIC CHANGES IN PROGRAM

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—(P)—A sub-committee of the Texas senate decided today to recommend that Lawrence Westbrook be retained as director of unemployment relief activities.

The new commission would consist of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and eight other members. One of the commissioners would be appointed by the speaker of the house and another by the lieutenant governor.

The six other members would be John Wood, chairman of the highway commission, T. A. Lower of Brenham, one of the governors appointed to the present rehabilitation and relief commission, Claude D. Teer, chairman of the board of control, W. D. Cline of Wichita Falls, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, E. L. Kurth of Lufkin, president of the East Texas chamber, and F. W. Kirk of Houston, president of the South Texas chamber.

The funds would be distributed within the counties by committees selected by the commissioners' courts and approved by the state commission.

The subcommittee was named after the senate had concluded a searching investigation into the past and present administration of federal unemployment relief funds. It was instructed to write a bill to provide for the issuance of state relief bonds to match federal funds and to prescribe the method for disbursing such funds.

The group decided to recommend the issuance of $7,500,000 of the $20,000,000 in state bonds authorized by the people in the election August 28.

Governor Chairman. Governor Ferguson would be chairman of the state relief commission. Westbrook's salary would be $4,000 yearly. The bill would permit the commission to employ an auditor at a salary of $3,000, a secretary at a salary of $2,500 and such other employees as were necessary.

Expenses of disbursement of relief funds within the counties would be borne by the counties or the federal government. The bill proposed to appropriate $75,000 for the expenses of the state or organization for the next two years. County committees would consist of five members except in counties containing a city of 150,000 population or larger, in which counties the governing body of the city would be empowered to name two additional members. Each county committee would appoint a relief director who would be bonded.

Retired By Beer Tax. The bonds would be retired out of the beer tax, if the revenues from that source are sufficient. If not, one twentieth of the revenues from sources other than the proposed bonds would be appropriated.

Twenty per cent of the revenues would be placed in a state equalization fund, to be distributed to the counties which needed it most. Able-bodied indigent persons would be required to work on essential permanent public improvements with direct relief extended only to the aged and infirm. The county commissioners' courts would supervise the public works.

The bill provided that bonds could not be for more than four and one-fourth per cent interest. The making of false statements by any applicant for relief would be a misdemeanor. The bill also provided for the administrators of the funds would be felons.

Members of the sub-committee said they planned to submit the bill to the senate this afternoon or tomorrow.

PAIR CAPTURED IN NEW MEXICO WITH BANK ROBBERY LOOT

OFFICERS IDENTIFY MAN AS ESCAPER FROM KANSAS PENITENTIARY IN MAY

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Oct. 7.—(P)—The roundup of the convicts who escaped from the Kansas penitentiary last Memorial Day and left a trail of crime and terror through the Southwest, neared the end today with the identification of two men captured here last night as among the fugitives.

Sheriff Ira Allen said one of the prisoners, dangerously wounded in seeking to escape arrest, had been identified as Bob Brady, 23-year-old bank robber sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual criminal.

The other man was tentatively identified as Jim Clark, 30, also under life sentence as an habitual criminal. Brady and Clark were among the eleven convicts who broke out of the Kansas prison under the leadership of Harvey Bailey, sentenced today at Oklahoma City to life imprisonment for the Charles F. Trichel kidnapping, and Wilbur Underhill, slayer of a Wichita policeman.

Underhill and Ed Davis are the only ones still at large. Authorities thought at first that the man identified as Clark might be Underhill, but later found that the man was a different person.

Clark served two terms in the Oklahoma penitentiary and escaped May 25, 1932. He was convicted of the robbery of a Fort Scott, Kas., bank, and sent to the Kansas penitentiary with Harvey Bailey, convicted in the same case.

Sheriff Allen and Deputy Sheriff Ed Jackson escorted Clark and Brady on the highway two miles east of here. Brady was shot in the back and in the arm when he started to run.

The men were stopped by the officers who had been asked to look out for two bandits who robbed the First National Bank of Frederick, Okla., late Friday.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Oct. 7.—(P)—Sheriff Ira Allen of Quay county, N. M., today said he had tentatively identified one of the two men arrested here last night as Jim Clark, alleged escaped convict from the Kansas state penitentiary and notorious Southwestern outlaw.

The second man captured is known to be Bob Brady and is in a hospital here critically wounded, the result of his attempt to break away from Sheriff Allen and his deputy, Ed Jackson, when the officers accosted Clark and Brady on the highway two miles east of here. Brady was shot in the back and in the arm and hospital attendants this morning gave him little chance to recover.

The two men were stopped by the officers who had been asked to look out for two bandits who robbed the First National Bank of Frederick, Okla., late Friday.

When stopped the two men were traveling in a car with a man and a salesman but Sheriff Allen searched the car and found three sawed off shot guns and an automatic revolver. He also found $3,500 which corresponded to the amount taken in the robbery at Frederick.

Clark made no effort to resist arrest, but Brady, Sheriff Allen said, started to run away from the car and the sheriff shot at him with a shot gun, striking him in the back. Deputy Jackson shot Brady in the arm.

To Face Massacre Charge. KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7.—(P)—W. L. Vandewater, United States district attorney, said today Bob Brady, escaped convict, captured in New Mexico, would be returned here for trial on an indictment charging him with conspiracy in connection with the Union station slayings here, should he recover from bullet wounds.

HOUSE REFUSES TO ASK REVISIONS OF SALARY SCHEDULES

LOWER HOUSE ALSO REFUSES AGREE WITH SENATE ON OTHER MEASURES

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—(P)—The house of representatives today refused to adopt a resolution asking Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson to submit adjustments of salaries of state employees, reduced an average of 25 per cent at the regular session.

Representative H. H. McGregor of Austin, where most of the state employees reside, opposed the resolution.

If the employees are not satisfied with the salaries, let them resign," McGregor said. "We can fill all the offices from the governor's office to the porters with just as competent people within 48 hours."

The resolution was defeated 82 to 27.

The house refused to concur in senate amendments to a bill reducing license fees on farm trucks by approximately 50 per cent and asked for a conference committee.

A bill to provide for regulation of rates of all utilities by the railroad commission was killed when the house refused to print it on minority report.

Senate Passes Bill. AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—(P)—The senate today passed a house bill to create a revolving fund so that discharged convicts may receive their payments in cash regardless of whether or not there is a deficit in the state's general revenue fund.

Another bill passed by the senate would change the terms of court in the 13th judicial district, comprising Coleman, Concho, Runnels, and Tom Green counties.

The senate approved a bill by Senator W. R. Cousins of Beaumont to authorize navigation districts to borrow funds from the federal government to purchase or enlarge wharves, warehouses, belt railroads and all other facilities necessary towards the operation or development of ports or water ways.

Nothing Done Yet On Bond Relief. AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—(P)—Legislation to provide for disbursement of state bond relief funds continued in preliminary stages in the legislature today with only seven more working days of the special session remaining.

A bill submitted by Governor Ferguson setting out the administration plan for relief was laid before the house yesterday and committed to the judiciary committee along with other proposals on the same subject.

A senate sub-committee working on a bill for submission to the upper branch reported that it had agreed on details of a bill but had not completed the draft.

A sub-committee of the senate judiciary committee was appointed to iron out differences in house bills on bond legislation.

The governor's bill provided for continuation of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission as the disbursement agency. Proposals had been offered in each house to oust the commission and replace it with another agency.

The senate state affairs committee voted a favorable report to a bill to re-enact as a separate statute a law, which became effective September 1, legalizing the certificate system of wagering on horse races. The law was enacted as a rider on the general appropriation bill.

A bill to allow the dairy industry to adopt a state code to bring production down to consumption and increase prices was killed in the house. The bill fixed an engagement, 52 to 72.

An appropriation of $200,000 was voted by the house to the attorney general to defend the state against an appeal filed by the Lone Star Gas company from an order of the Texas railroad commission reducing gas rates at 250 cities and towns from 40 cents to 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

The appropriation was subject to senate approval.

The senate banking committee voted a favorable report on a bill to permit the guarantee of deposits in state banks after next January 1.

Marginal Well Basis. AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—(P)—A bill by Senator Will D. Pace of Tyler to increase the production allowance on marginal oil wells was before the senate today with a favorable committee report.

The committee acted after a hearing in which Former Senator Thomas G. Pollard of Tyler and Roy Jenkins of Dallas, East Texas operators, spoke for the proposal and Charles F. Trichel, who owned a well in the area, spoke against it.

Pollard said that while the bill was general in character its principal effect would be to increase the production of oil per well in the East Texas oil field from 20 to 30 barrels daily.

Francis expressed fear that passage of the bill would disrupt "the entire oil industry."

MANION AND BEVILL SENTENCED FEDERAL PRISON SATURDAY. MANION GETS TWO YEARS AND $10,000 FINE, AND BEVILL GETS 14 MONTHS.

DALLAS, Oct. 7.—(P)—Thomas L. Manion was sentenced to two years imprisonment and fined $10,000 and Grover C. Bevill was sentenced to 14 months in prison today for assisting in the Labor Day escape of Harvey Bailey from the Dallas county jail.

William H. Atwell, federal judge, before whom Manion and Bevill were tried this week, pronounced the sentences and ordered that the men be taken to Leavenworth, Kansas, where they will serve their terms.

Robert L. Hurt, district attorney, then asked the court to turn the men over to the state for trial here on an indictment similar to the federal court count.

Before affixing the penalties, Judge Atwell said that the nature of the crime was so serious that he had difficulty in deciding on the penalties. He said the community and the nation as a whole had been shocked by the revelations following Bailey's escape.

The judge said that although found guilty on five counts in the federal indictment, Manion and Bevill were sentenced as though found guilty of one offense. Given an opportunity to address the court, Bevill pleaded for leniency, asserting that he had been in difficulty with operation of his butcher shop, that at the time he aided the Bailey escape he didn't realize the seriousness of the situation, that he had since realized his error and had told authorities the whole truth.

Manion thanked the court for a fair and impartial trial.

"Even though I have been found guilty by a jury, I am an innocent man," he said.

Judge Atwell then pronounced sentence.

"I sentence you, Bevill, to 14 months in Leavenworth prison," he said. "And I sentence you, Manion, to two years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000."

HOUSE COMMITTEE REPORTED RELIEF BONDS MEASURE

BILL DIFFERED RADICALLY FROM THAT APPROVED FRIDAY BY SENATE

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—(P)—The judiciary committee of the Texas house today reported favorably on a bill to provide for issuance of state relief bonds and distribution of the bond money.

The bill differed radically in many respects with one approved yesterday by the senate committee of the whole.

The governor convened the legislature in special session Sept. 14 to enact a law issuing the bonds and prescribing how the funds should be expended. The session will end by constitutional limitation next Friday.

Only $6,000,000 of the bonds would be issued immediately under the house bill. The senate proposed to issue $7,500,000.

The house bill would continue the rehabilitation and relief commission of seven members in effect, but would add the lieutenant governor and speaker of the house as members. Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson would be retained as ex-officio chairman of the commission but would not be allowed to vote on any proposition.

The senate bill would establish a new commission.

The house bill would set up a separate commission to issue the bonds and functions of the rehabilitation and relief commission would be confined to expending the bond money.

Lawrence Westbrook, present director of the commission by appointment of the governor would be continued in the new organization.

The senate passed a companion bill by Senator Walter Woodul of Houston to authorize state banks to obtain stock in the federal deposit insurance corporation.

Another bill approved by the senate would require milk distributors of Harris, Galveston and Jefferson counties to operate under a code of fair competition. Senator Woodul said its purpose was to eliminate milk price wars and "cut throat" competition.

The vote was 15 to 9, the bill failing to receive the majority necessary to put it into immediate effect. If passed by the house and signed by the governor or it would become effective January 1.

Just couldn't sleep and there was no one to leave the kids alone. The two dead youths are Willis, Jr., 13, and William W. O'Brien, 15.

The tragedy took place in a hospital room at the Santa Monica hospital where Mrs. O'Brien lived with her two sons. She has been separated from her husband for the last three years.

Police filed a charge of "murder" against Mrs. O'Brien.

The bill would give the commission of agriculture the power to fix the price of milk in the counties affected, and persons selling or selling milk would have to obtain permission from him.

Veterans Exempted. AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—(P)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today signed a bill to exempt veterans of the Spanish American and World War from payment of tuition at state colleges and universities.

The bill also would authorize the board of regents of state educational institutions to award scholarships to honor graduates of high schools.

THE WORLD CHAMPIONS

Are you interested in the world series baseball games and their champion players? If so you probably admire most of all the superb self control which these men show. For out of all the magnificent ball players considered fast enough for the major leagues, the majority could not probably go through such a strain without cracking.

To feel that all the honors and money that go with this final trophy depend on your ability to hit one swift and curving pitched ball in a pinch, or your ability to field a sizzling grounder as it zips out through the diamond, well that tests whether a man is the boss of his nerves. The average player goes up in the air. But the world series winner says, "I am going to get that ball if I die for it," and he gets it.

But in such moments of strain, the majority are over anxious. They try too hard. Their effort is so intense that their nervous force collapses. It is as in grinding a knife. If you grind too fine, you get a feather edge which quickly breaks down. It takes a certain underlying philosophy to play through such pinches. The winning player must put all he has into it, but there must be the feeling back of it that he is not going to weep and lament if he and his team fail.

People who do not often witness such a game are amazed by the high degree of skill. The batted ball may be so quick that the spectator can not follow it. But that hawk eyed player has it; as it banks its way across the diamond, and like a streak of lightning it reaches the baseman. It is an exhibition of superb muscular co-ordination. Not a lost motion, not a fraction of a second wasted. The bodies of these players seem to flow together in a rhythmic effort, to produce the highest possible effect of speed and accuracy. American sport lovers take off their hats to the superb young giants who achieve this athletic triumph.

WAIT A WHILE

The question of whether the national recovery act is to be made permanent or whether it will end with the ending of the present emergency is being raised in some quarters.

J. S. Tritle, president of the National Electrical Manufacturers association, declared in a Cleveland speech his belief that the act would become a permanent part of America's national life. Similar views, we believe, have been expressed by others.

The question is not a pertinent one now. Not until the act has shown results by which it can be judged will it be of profit to discuss it from the standpoint of its permanency. The plan was decided on to meet a particular emergency. The emergency has not yet passed, and has the plan had time to prove what it can do. It is more important that all efforts be concentrated at present on making the plan a success.

It will be time enough then to consider whether it should become permanent.

The middle class is the class that isn't poor enough to be exempt from income tax, but isn't rich enough to ignore it.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1932, Edw. A. Guest.)

BROTHERHOOD.
"Am I my brother's keeper?" answered Cain.
When questioned of his brother Abel, slain.
And since such record keepings first began.
This phrase has lingered on the lips of man.
Still is it heard: "Oh, is it mine to care
What mischief my brother has to bear?"
Lord, is it not enough that I must see
That I have food and all is well with me?

Suppose a plague should fall upon the town.
Would it not trouble men of great renown
To learn that on some little near-by street
Were those, perhaps, they once had scorned to meet?
Sore stricken with the malady?
And would they not unite with all the neighborhood
To win to health and happiness again
The very humblest of their fellow-men?

Within their brother's health they'd seek their own.
To them his daily progress would be known.
They'd watch the sick and suffering and share
Their misery lest the pain he theirs to bear.
For what harms one another may destroy.
Not in our own but in another's joy
Lies common welfare. Brothers are we all!

UNKNOWN HEROES.

The heroic role being played by three unidentified scientists in an effort to find the cause of "sleeping sickness" now epidemic in St. Louis is not an unusual one for members of the medical profession. The latter's record has in it many similar cases in which members have risked their lives in an effort to advance the welfare of humanity. In some, the supreme sacrifice has been made.

For several months the nation's best medical brains have been trying to end the St. Louis epidemic, which has taken more than 100 lives. Recognizing the necessity of learning the cause of the disease before a cure could be expected to be found, experiments having this as their aim were begun. It was believed that if the means of transmission of the disease from one person to another could be found, an important step toward discovering the cause would be made. Monkeys and rabbits at first were used in these experiments. Mosquitoes, after being permitted to bite victims of the disease, were placed in contact with these animals. The test was unsuccessful.

Three scientists, their names withheld, then volunteered themselves as subjects, apparently on the theory that monkeys and rabbits might possess a resistance to the disease not common with man. Their offer was accepted and they took the place of the monkeys and rabbits. From 10 to 14 days will be required to determine the success or failure of the experiment.

With their identity concealed, they can not be accused of courting publicity, which has become an all too common practice in many walks of professional and private life. They are risking their lives in the hope that whatever sacrifice they may have to make will be of help to humanity. They are unknown heroes in a great cause.

The public may never know their names, but it, nevertheless, will acclaim and honor them for their unselfish devotion to a lofty purpose. It is to such men as these that the medical profession owes much of its high standing.

PLIGHT OF THE SMOKER

Those soothing qualities claimed for tobacco by its users will come in good stead after October 1 when a processing tax goes into effect on virtually every type of home-grown tobacco and when, by reason of that new levy, tobacco prices will go up.

The most cheerful giver in the world is the smoker. About half of all he spends for smokes he gives to the government to help it balance budgets, keep politicians on the public payrolls and relieve other taxpayers. Now he must give to help the poor tobacco grower.

Yet he seldom complains. He takes it on the pocket-book day in and day out without as much as a murmur, but let them raise his

MORE SPEED ASKED

The call again has gone out from Washington to states and cities wanting federal funds for public works to hurry their plans. It comes this time from the president himself. The administrator of the public works fund, Secretary Ickes, previously had appealed for greater speed, and considerable red tape had been cut to permit this.

Less than $2,000,000,000 of the $3,300,000,000 available for public works projects has been allocated.

It is not often that special efforts have to be made to give away money. Prospective recipients usually need no urging to take their place in line.

With winter almost here, it is especially desirable that work be given to as large numbers of unemployed as possible. This was emphasized by the president in his appeal to mayors meeting in Chicago to hurry forward their plans. He promised that the latter would be acted upon "with a minimum of delay" by officials in Washington. "We will match speed with you," he said. "The money is available, and we want to put men to work."

Certain safeguards have to be observed in allocating the money, to prevent waste and graft. These appear, though, to have been reduced to a minimum, and the administration is anxious that projects encounter as little delay as possible.

The need is immediate. The money is ready. No further appeal from Washington authorities should be necessary to spur officials to action.

property or income taxes and his congressman and legislator will hear about it in the first mail.

This tolerance is not hard to explain. The smoker wants his pipe, cigar or cigarette at any cost. And the tax-makers are cute enough to impose their levies indirectly that the tax may be absorbed in the price and quickly forgotten at the tobacco counter. Ignorance of taxes is bliss.

But even here there is the last straw that breaks the camel's back. The traffic will hear so much and no more. There may come a day of reckoning when the government must choose between levying on tobacco to help the growers and levying to help the budget.

The backbone is that part of man slowly eliminated by a paternal government.

Why not dig up Ford's peace ship and send it out to him?

AN OBJECTIONABLE PLAN

It seems a little strange that Senator Byrd, who comes from that section of the country most jealous of states' rights, should be proposing a measure which would mean further federal interference in matters chiefly of state concern.

The Virginian proposes that the taxation of gasoline be placed exclusively in the hands of the federal government. Under his plan, a uniform tax of five cents a gallon would be imposed, with the proceeds being apportioned among the states on the basis of their automobile registrations.

There are too many objections to the plan for it to receive serious consideration. The chief purpose of the Byrd plan would be to prevent gasoline bootlegging by correcting inequalities in taxation of the fuel. This aim, while a meritorious one, is of less importance than the objectionable features of the proposal. Under the state-tax plan, the gasoline levy can be reduced when the voters decide it is too high. This would not be the case under the Byrd proposal. Nor would there be any assurance that the tax would be held permanently to the five-cent level. Congress is a grasping body when it comes to finding new source offers a shining target for its rapacity.

The states already have seen too many of their rights taken from them by the federal government. To have their rights in local tax matters interfered with would be a dangerous step. The right to tax gasoline belongs to the states and the latter should keep it.

Yet your opinion would be like the other fellow's if you had made it out of the same limited material.

But never yet has a Moses saved a people that sat with folded hands and waited to be saved.

What a world! Without people it would be too lonely; yet all of its woe is caused by people.

It isn't hard to tell "quality folks." You can treat them as equals without inviting impudence.

Yet the only free people are those so unimportant that nobody knows or cares what they do.

BALLYHOO ENDS.

Considerable relief will be felt by the public that the ballyhoo phase of the recovery campaign has ended. Henceforth, we are led to believe by Washington dispatches, there will be less shouting and more solid work in getting to their proper tasks.

As marking the change comes word that Charles F. Horner, publicity expert who has been director of the phase of the drive now ending, has resigned. Most of the major industries have been signed up under the code plan. It was to hasten this process that the emotional element was introduced into the campaign. Officials are reported as having been not entirely satisfied with the results.

The "buy-now" drive which is scheduled to be started soon will depend for its success not upon similar tactics but upon industrial advertising emphasizing the rational advantage to consumers of buying before prices go higher. This appears to be a much more sensible and promising course.

There is little doubt that the ballyhoo that has accompanied the recovery drive so far gave it a gaudiness that detracted from its more solid features. The campaign eventually will stand or fall on its merits. It is time for the latter to be looked at coldly and dispassionately.

Realization of this fact by Washington officials is a welcome development.

The final proof of poise is to refrain from swatting Junior when he refuses to show off for company.

MANY VISITORS ARE EXPECTED AT TYLER FESTIVAL OF ROSES

FIRST ANNUAL EAST TEXAS ROSE CARNIVAL OPENS NEXT WEDNESDAY

TYLER, Oct. 7.—Preparations have been completed to entertain more than 15,000 visitors to Tyler when the first annual East Texas Rose Festival opens here Wednesday, Oct. 11. The festival which will last through Thursday, is expected to attract rose lovers from a dozen southwestern states.

More than twenty-five East Texas cities and towns will be represented in the celebration with princesses and decorated floats taking part in a mammoth parade Wednesday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock. There will be four divisions to the parade—community, commercial, civic and military. The procession is expected to be more than a mile long.

During the parade airplanes will fly over the city and shower the street crowds with roses. Aerial maneuvers by visiting flyers also are planned.

Selection of the East Texas Rose Queen will be made by a secret committee Wednesday night at a reception and dance for visiting princesses. The queen will not be announced until the coronation ceremony in Bergfeld Park the following afternoon at 4 o'clock. This ceremony will be incorporated in an operetta, "In Search of a Rose Queen," written especially for the occasion by Agnes Nunnemaker, who will also direct the production. More than 100 Tyler high school children will have part in the cast.

On both days of the festival there will be motor tours of the nurseries in the Tyler area. There are approximately 125 nurseries within a few miles radius of Tyler, producing one third of the nation's supply of roses. Last year more than 7,000,000 rose plants were shipped from Smith county.

Of paramount interest to rose lovers and growers will be the lecture by Dr. J. Horace McFarland, editor of the American Rose Annual. Dr. McFarland's lecture is scheduled for Thursday evening at the Blackstone hotel following a banquet in his honor. The speaker, outstanding rose authority of America, will take as his subject: "Adventures in Rose Growing."

Also on the speaking program is Senator Tom Connally of Marine who will address an all-civic luncheon at the Blackstone Hotel Thursday noon. Senator Connally, coming here by special invitation, will be introduced by Col. Carl Estes, editor of the Tyler Courier-Times.

Cotton Rental Payments Were Announced Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The farm adjustment administration announced today land rental payments to farmers who join in its 1934 cotton control program will range from $3 to $11 an acre depending upon potential yields.

The announcement of the scale of payments was made by the administration as it speeded up development of the control program with the hope of beginning a campaign among cotton farmers within two weeks.

In addition to the rental payments, producers joining in the control program will be paid a benefit on the domestic portion of their crop if the average price during the next season is below "parity" prices based on pre-war average prices. Any rentals that have been advanced will be deducted from these benefit payments.

The schedule of rental payments effective for the program follows:

When the potential yield is from 75 to 125 pounds per acre, not over $3; 150 to 200 pounds, not over $5; 225 to 300 pounds, a maximum of $7; 325 to 400 pounds, a maximum of $9; 400 pounds and over per acre, not over $11.

Kerens Receiving Much Cotton And Farmers Pay Debts

KERENS, Oct. 7.—(Sp.)—The cotton receipts here at the three yards were 11,728 bales up to Friday night, which is more than was predicted after the plow up.

The largest estimate for this year was placed at 12,000 by cotton men that keep up with the Kerens receipts. Some now estimate the crop at 13,000 bales, a large amount of cotton received here is brought in from adjacent counties.

According to reports of farmers a larger acreage will be put in oats this year than last. Land is being broken now for oats and a large acreage is already up.

The plow-up checks and the large cotton crop is showing its effects here among the farmers. It is a common report of debts two and three years old being paid by them. Taking it all around farmers are in better shape than in the last three years.

DEPOSIT GUARANTEE BILL WAS PASSED BY SENATE SATURDAY

WOULD GIVE STATE BANKS OPTION IN GUARANTEEING OF DEPOSITS

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The senate today passed a house bill to permit the guarantee of deposits in state banks after next January 1. The vote was 23 to 2.

Deposits would be guaranteed through the bank deposit insurance company. Membership in this company would be optional. Banks which did not want to guarantee their deposits would not have to do so. Banks which preferred to become members of the federal reserve system or the federal deposit insurance corporation would be entitled to that privilege.

Member banks would be required to subscribe five per cent of their capital stock to the bank deposit insurance company. They also would have to pay a small percentage of the interest they received on loans. The money would be used to build up a surplus out of which losses would be paid. Directors of the company might suspend collections when the surplus reached $25,000,000.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston made the only speech against the bill. He said there was widespread dissatisfaction with the federal government's plan to insure deposits, effective Jan. 1, and that the plan might be changed. He advised the legislature not to act until it was certain that the national government was going ahead with its program.

Holbrook said that the state's past experience with the bank guaranty fund should be sufficient to convince the legislature the plan was unwise.

A great many women after the age of 35 or so, literally allow their chins to run away with them. If you are anywhere near this fatal age, put yourself in front of your dressing table mirror, turn sideways to it, and arrange your hand mirror so you get a good look at your chin. If it seems to be losing its firmness, you must immediately take steps to strap it up and restore its youthful outline.

Corsicana Bank Clearings Gain Over Past Week

Corsicana bank clearings continued this week to show gains over the corresponding periods of last year, according to figures released Friday, showing total for the week ending with Wednesday's business at $839,000, as compared with $732,000 for last week, and with $659,000 for the same period of 1932.

The clearings showed a gain of $107,000 over last week or almost twenty per cent; while the gain over the same period for last year was $180,000 or slightly more than twenty-five per cent. Total receipts from Navarro county's participation in the national cotton acreage reduction campaign were swelled Friday by arrival of 107 additional checks for a total of $23,587. The grand totals show that $553,898.33 has been received in 2,987 checks. It is estimated that about sixty per cent of the contracts have been completed and paid.

HOW PROGRESS IS MADE IN HOUSE ON STATE BOND BILL

SUBSTITUTE BILL OFFERED FOR ONE PASSED LATE SAT- URDAY BY SENATE

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(P)—Slow progress was made in the Texas house today toward final passage of a bill to issue state bonds to relieve unemployment distress.

The house substituted its bill for one passed late Saturday night by the senate and then started consideration of amendments.

An amendment was pending at the noon recess to reduce the amount of the initial bond issue from $6,000,000 to $2,000,000. It was offered as a substitute for an amendment that provided for a $3,000,000 issue.

The senate bill proposed to issue $6,000,000.

Opponents of the amendments to reduce the issue below $6,000,000 argued that this amount would be insufficient to last through the winter and that another special session would be required to raise additional bonds.

Lawrence Westbrook, director of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, estimated it would require approximately $15,000,000 for relief work for the six months period starting October 1. The federal government has promised to match Texas money dollar for dollar.

Representative A. M. Alkin of Paris said the state would be "let off" if it issued only $1,000,000. He challenged those who claimed thousands were in danger of starvation to find "any record where any one ever starved in Texas."

Legislature Gets Started on Work

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(P)—The legislature was on its way today toward final accomplishment of the purposes for which it was convened in special session.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson called the special session September 14 to enact laws to provide for insurance of state relief bonds and to soften the anti-trust laws to allow Texas industries to cooperate fully in the national recovery program. The session will end Friday.

The senate worked until midnight Saturday to pass a bond bill. A bill that differed in many respects with the senate proposal, was on the house calendar for special consideration today. It was indicated the house would substitute its bill for that passed by the senate and that the final draft would be written by a conference committee.

Senate bills proposed immediate issuance of $6,000,000 of an authorized $20,000,000 issue. Amendments had been prepared in the house to reduce the initial issues to $4,000,000.

Require Million Monthly.

It was estimated by Lawrence Westbrook, director of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, which has been disbursing federal relief funds, that it would require more than $1,000,000 of state funds monthly to match federal funds. Should the initial issue of the legislature be insufficient, it would be necessary for the legislature to meet again in special session to authorize additional bonds.

The senate bill proposed to reduce the present commission which would retain the existing agency and add to its personnel the lieutenant governor and director of the house.

The present commission was authorized by the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker.

A bill to exempt NRA industries from anti-trust law prosecution has been introduced by the senate committee on commerce.

Senate approval was expected today.

As a special order in the senate for Tuesday was a bill to legalize the law legalizing the horse racing system of betting on horse racing. The bill was passed by the senate several days ago.

World Grill Senators.

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(P)—The house representatives today adopted a resolution asking the senate to answer a question recently asked by the house, showing the sources of their private incomes and their connections, if any, with corporations or other organizations interested in sponsoring legislation.

The resolution was introduced by Representative Otis Dunagan of Big San.

Amend Across Child Labor.

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(P)—Debate on amendment of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution was resumed in the senate today with proponents asserting that it was necessary to amend the child labor amendment in order to take the labor law off the constitution with the principle of states' rights.

The amendment would empower congress to regulate, limit or prohibit the labor of children under 18 years of age. The Texas senate had voted for its ratification.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston charged that the amendment was "a dangerous, undemocratic, filled with danger from the past to end." He expressed belief that it would "more and far reaching in effect than the 18th amendment."

Senator Margie E. Neal of Carthage opposed the amendment as "a step toward giving the children of the nation a 'fair' share of the nation's wealth."

He said it would take them from the "sweet shops" and let them get an education.

Sitting on Europe's Powder Keg

The recent assassination attempt on Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, in which the statesman received two minor wounds, might well have been the spark to ignite the blaze of another war in Europe, as did the assassination of the Archduke Francis and his wife, in 1914. At no time in its history has the continent been so ripe for war as at present.

Chancellor Hitler, at the head of Nazi-ridden Germany, hurled defiance at France with one hand, while seeking to drag Austria into the Reich with the other. France is armed to the teeth and ready for trouble. In Italy, Premier Mussolini gives moral and material support to Dollfuss in his war against German Nazi propaganda, and even peace-loving Holland is preparing to defend her frontiers against a feared German invasion.

KELLYS

raised his manacled hands in what the officer interpreted as a menacing gesture.

Hit Kelly Over Head.

White drew his pistol and, grasping the barrel, pounded Kelly over the head.

"Don't! Don't!" his wife shrieked.

A crowd of four score curious scattered in every direction as other guards drew their pistols and huddled around Kelly.

They quitted the couple and the ascent to the courtroom was resumed without further incident.

Kathryn was sprightly and smiling as she took her seat beside her husband and began chatting with her lawyers. She and Kelly posed willingly for photographers.

In the same courtroom last Saturday, seven persons convicted a week before were sentenced to four years for life terms for their part in the conspiracy. Not until these others went to trial were the Kellys trapped and caught in Memphis.

Crowd Was Small.

The courtroom was surprisingly small as both government and defense announced "ready" and the first 12 of a panel of 60 veniremen were called for questioning.

Start of the jury selection, expected to consume most of the day, precluded, for the time being, the possibility of either of the Kellys pleading guilty.

They had kept the prosecution in uncertainty all last week by frequently changing their minds, announcing one day that they would stand trial and the next that they would "take the rap."

Urschel, the millionaire kidnaper, appeared at the courtroom nearly an hour after the trial started.

Fight Opens Day.
For Both Kellys

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 9.—(P)—As George (Mac) Kelly, his wife, Kathryn, and his daughter, Kathryn, started to enter the elevator of the federal building today just before their kidnapping trial was scheduled to start, they engaged in a "free-for-all" fistfight with a federal guard.

As Kathryn paused to kiss a man relative, the officer tried to prevent the greeting, giving her a slight shove. She stumbled and nearly fell.

Angered, she turned and slapped the officer in the face. He returned the blow and Kelly, raising his handcuffed hands, attempted to attack the officer.

Another officer drew his pistol and struck the outlaw over the head several times.

The guard slapped by Mrs. Kelly was C. C. White, department of justice agent.

No one was hurt seriously, and as soon as the excitement had died down, the Kellys were taken into the courtroom under heavy guard.

Determined to drive a hard and fast case against the couple, District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde said as court opened:

"I think about 12 witnesses are at hand who will be needed."

The previous trial, from which Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Shannon of the Paradise, Texas, "kidnap ranch" drew life sentences, consumed two weeks.

Has Kith on Head.

As Kelly stumbled into the courtroom, bound with arm and leg chains, a knot on the left side of his head was visible. His dyed yellow hair was slightly stained with blood.

It developed his wife had tried to kiss her father, J. E. Brooks, thus precipitating the elevator ruckus.

"Yes, I slapped that officer," she snapped, "and I'd slap him again."

Moore offered the amendment to require the committee to report by Friday. It was sent up as substitute for one offered by Representative T. H. McGregor, who had proposed that the investigation be concluded by November 1.

The resolution also authorized the committee to investigate "any other governmental department of whatso ever kind or character."
